

SUFFRAGE LOSES JERSEY BY 70,000

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Trenton, N. J., Oct. 20.—The magnitude of the defeat administered to woman suffrage in New Jersey yesterday was increased by returns from outlying districts today. Election officials as a result estimated that the "antis" won by from 65,000 to 70,000.

Though the suffrage leaders were bitterly disappointed by the result of the special election, they asserted that they would continue the fight. This will be a five year contest, as it will be impossible to submit a suffrage amendment to the voters until 1920.

Many charges of fraud were made by the suffragists but they admitted that this probably did not affect the final result. Rather they laid their defeat to the political machines and the liquor interests. They accused the political leaders of not playing fair; that instead of keeping hands off in the fight, they meddled to the detriment of the suffrage cause.

Only one of the 21 counties in the state returned a majority for the suffrage amendment. It carried Ocean county, which borders on the ocean, and has a population of fishermen and farmers, by three hundred votes. Few of the 1,891 voting districts voted in favor of the measure.

The suffrage forces found one source of joy in the rebuke administered to Governor Fielder in his own district. Though the governor had declared himself opposed to suffrage his district returned a majority of 53 for it.

Though President Wilson voted for the amendment at Princeton, that district decided against suffrage by 86 votes.

Larger cities such as Newark, Jersey City and Paterson rejected "votes for women" decisively. The suffrage leaders attributed the heavy vote against the amendment in these districts to the work of the liquor interests, though it fared little better in many of the rural communities. Districts inhabited almost exclusively by the working classes voted strongly against suffrage.

The suffragists anticipated small majorities against them in Essex and Hudson counties, the most populous counties of the state, but they were surprised by the actual result. The returns indicated that Essex and Hudson had rejected the amendment by 15,000 and 8,000 respectively.

GOOD ADDRESSES AT S. S. CONVENTION

The fifty-fourth annual convention of the Ulster County Sunday School Association opened at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday afternoon and those who attended were well repaid. Right in keeping with the theme as laid out in the program, the meeting was opened by Dr. C. F. Banker, who introduced the Rev. George E. Barber, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. Dr. Barber asked the blessing of the Almighty on the convention, and choosing "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over that which has been the least," as a text, delivered a forceful, emotional and inspiring address on the importance of children's instruction, dwelling at length on the impressionableness of the childhood time. He begged the teacher to realize the infinite potentiality wrapped up in the child, and seasoned his remarks with anecdotes fittingly illustrating his meaning, closing his address with the appeal to anyone who might not have been saved to come up and join them.

The presiding officer introduced the Rev. D. G. Verwey of Walkkill, whose address was on the possibilities of organization in the class movement. It is possible there is such a thing as "spiritual indigestion," said Mr. Verwey, and affairs were then over organized. Organization is just a step in the scheme which moved on towards efficiency, and progressed into output. The proposition as a whole has to be worked out by the local Sunday school staff and whether or not they find, as he had found, that the social side can be over done, they must make their organization produce the goods or it was useless.

He was followed by the singing of the hymn, "We've a Story to Tell," and the offering.

The Rev. A. B. Boynton of Port Jervis offered enthusiasm as one of the vital adjuncts to any organization, and felt that even one person, who was enthusiastic, was a majority, for he had the Lord with him and must prevail.

The committees were announced by the chairman as follows:
Nominating committee: William S. Eltinge, Kingston; E. A. Snyder, Ellenville; S. E. Elmer, Kingston.
Auditing committee: Madison Shultz, Wittenberg; Charles H. Velt, High Falls.

The Rev. G. Franklyn Snyder proved to be the wit of the session. His address, "The Sunday School Reaching the Community," ably closed the day. His theme was that conscience is an educated principle, and the work of the Sunday school is the education of the conscience. This and only this can be the motive which is the intention of religious instruction. He advocated social service as an important adjunct to the work of the church, the establishment of an employment bureau, fresh air work, relief work, friendly visitation and the furthering of the Big Brother and Sister movement.

The singing of the song, "For the Man of Galilee," led by Rev. W. F. Stowe, and prayer by the Rev. D. G. Verwey, closed the session.

The treasurer's report totals are as follows: Total amount of receipts, $731.97; disbursements, $556.10; balance on hand, $175.87.

The superintendent's statistical report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1914, was as follows: Grand total membership enrolled, 11,109; number of officers and teachers, 1,361; number of pupils, 12,333; average attendance upon session of schools, 7,982.

These figures do not include the following schools which refuse to report: Ellenville, Marlborough, Milton, Stone Ridge, High Falls, Kingston, and Holy Spirit, Kingston.

The evening session of the convention was opened promptly at 7:30 with prayer by the president, and the Rev. W. F. Stowe, of the Church of the Comforter, Kingston, conducted a rousing praise service of songs.

Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes described the progress of Sunday school teaching from its chaotic stage of some 35 to 40 years to the present effort toward steady and comprehensive instruction, and the many things found wrong in the past in handling of the child. The Sunday school facilities had at last concluded that the child is not an abbreviated adult but a proposition needing special classification all its own. It had long been felt that something was wrong; too many pupils seemed to have no background and no proper primary preparation, although a great deal of work seemed to have been done, and so the present reliance is to conduct instruction toward progressive results.

Mrs. Barnes was followed by song and offering.

The day's speakers had been truly capable but the last and by no means the least, and like a refreshing desert at the time when the mental appetite should have been met, came Dr. Milton S. Littlefield, and his address on "The Evangelistic Opportunities of the Graded Lessons." This address brought to bear a fund of scholastic information unlimited in its scope. The many subjects touched upon, characteristic of the doctor's intention, never tired one. Right on, quoting Henry James, making scientific comparisons, illustrating by anecdote, painting a word picture of a great past and Old Master painter, sculptor, or jurist, carrying his story through and not revealing his idea until right toward the close, it flashed that "Education is expressive in terms of conduct." "Therefore conversion cannot be the end," said the doctor, and the "Evangelistic Opportunity of the Graded Lessons" were in the potential worth in them, which was their great value.

The first day's session closed with prayer and song, a truly educational gathering of the highest order.

Y. M. C. A. SENIOR LEADERS' CORPS

This photograph is a group picture of the senior leaders of the Y. M. C. A. for the season 1914-15. They are the young men who are the assistants of Physical Director Godfrey in the gymnasium during classes. Each leader takes a part of the class and puts it through the work on the apparatus. Each member of the group is a trained athlete and it is considered a great honor among the members of the association to be far enough advanced in the physical department work to become a member of the corps. Under the efficient leadership of Mr. Godfrey the physical department of the local association ranks with any along the Hudson river and the benefits secured from the gymnasium work is more than worth the small membership fee of the Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday Morning.

The third session of the convention opened with an audience curtailed no doubt by the threatening weather, but this very well conducted convention session opened promptly at 9 a. m. and was presided over by E. A. Smiley.

The Rev. A. B. Boynton addressed on "The Sunday School Reaching the Community," and the session broke into its groups going to different parlors, for addresses and instruction on "Sectional Period, School Methods," the program of which was arranged as follows:

9:30 Mass Period, School of Methods. Graded Organization and Instruction Distinguished from Graded Lessons. Dr. Milton S. Littlefield.

9:30 Teacher Training Plans. The Rev. G. W. Gulick.

10:20 Sectional Period, School of Methods.

Elementary Graded Temperance Instruction. Mrs. Galloway.

Secondary Graded Temperance Instruction. George D. Beckwith.

Adult Graded Temperance Instruction. The Rev. D. G. Verwey.

11:30 Mass Period, School of Methods. Missionary Opportunity of the Graded Lessons. Dr. Milton S. Littlefield.

11:10 Parents Department. Parents Classes and Courses of Study. Mrs. J. J. Jenkins.

Going from class to class the observer is impressed with the able way the instruction is given and realizes the sowing of a great and good work is taking place before him.

Anyone of any denomination will profit by attending these sessions of the convention; even the secularist will derive a satisfaction from the realization that a tolerance of opposing dogma is rampant and by organized effort the goal of Christian ideals close gradually to this shoulder to shoulder path.

Among those registered during the day and evening were the following:

TESTIMONY IN ELMORE WILL CASE

Miss Mary E. Elmore of Highland, over whose will there is a contest, had made two previous wills according to the testimony of Attorney Thornton Earle of New York city, the executor of the contested will, at Tuesday afternoon's session of supreme court when the trial was continued before Judge Hasbrouck and a jury. The case was continued this morning.

This contested will was executed in a parlor at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie on August 25, of last year and was filed for probate the last of October of the same year and shortly afterward James H. Elmore, a nephew of Miss Elmore, filed a contest to the probate of the will, claiming that his aunt had been unduly influenced in drawing this last will by Miss Frances Bruyn, a school teacher of Highland, who was bequeathed the Elmore home and its furnishings by the terms of the contested will.

Judge Clearwater, who is representing the executor, called out three witnesses on Tuesday to present this side of the case. They were Miss Anna Davis and Miss Carrie Doty, who witnessed the will, and Mr. Earle, the executor, and with their testimony he rested his case.

According to Mr. Earle's testimony his law partner, Mr. Thornton, was the attorney for Miss Elmore for a number of years. He said that he had drawn two previous wills for Miss Elmore, one in May of 1912 and the other in January of 1913. Shortly before he drew this last will he received a letter from Miss Elmore asking him to come to Poughkeepsie to draw a new will. He said that he had drawn this last will for Miss Elmore, one in May of 1912 and the other in January of 1913. Shortly before he drew this last will he received a letter from Miss Elmore asking him to come to Poughkeepsie to draw a new will. He said that he had drawn this last will for Miss Elmore, one in May of 1912 and the other in January of 1913.

In response to Miss Elmore's request, he had set a date for making the trip and had gone to Poughkeepsie to the Nelson House where he met Miss Elmore and Miss Bruyn. Miss Elmore and he retired to a private parlor where he drew up the will at her request, she informing him what she wanted in it.

In reply to questions by the court as to how he became a legatee in the contested will, he replied that in the two former wills a bequest of $1,000 had been made to his law partner who had died, and Miss Elmore had substituted his name for that of his partner. The court also asked him if he had not told Miss Elmore that it would reflect upon him to be mentioned in the will, and he replied that he did not think it did or does.

It was also brought out, according to the testimony of the Misses Davis and Doty, that Miss Elmore had told them that the reason she had come over to Poughkeepsie to draw her will was because there was some inquisitive people in Highland and she did not want them to know about her affairs.

The first witness called by Amos Van Etten, who, with Joseph M. Fowler, represent the contestant of the will, was Thomas W. Barrett, the treasurer of the Poughkeepsie Trust Company. He testified that Miss Elmore had been a stockholder in the company and that there was still thirteen shares of stock standing in her name since 1911.

He identified a card that he had filled out at the time Miss Elmore was assigned a deposit box in the building. This was introduced in evidence by Mr. Van Etten to show that at that time Miss Elmore had given the date of her birth as October 13, 1849.

Mr. Barrett explained that the date of birth was always taken as it was instead of a pass word as depositors would sometimes forget the password, but not likely to forget the date of their birth.

Mr. Van Etten also introduced the record of her birth as written in the family Bible which stated her birth as September 12, 1854.

The next witness called was J. T. Champlin, who had done chores around the house for Miss Elmore. He said that for the last few years before Miss Elmore's death that Miss Bruyn and her sister were at the Elmore home almost every evening.

The Sunday preceding the drawing of the contested will he said that he saw Miss Elmore and that she had been weeping and she asked her how she felt and she replied "miserable." He said that she had told him at that time that she did not want to offend the Bruyns.

On cross-examination by Judge Clearwater as to whether or not Miss Elmore did not hear well considering her advanced age, he replied "Yes, she hung up pretty good for her age."

He said that he was in his seventies and that sometimes he had his "ups and downs" due to his age.

DISORDER BEGINS IN SCHENECTADY

Schenectady, Oct. 20.—Turbulent scenes attending the attempt of employees of the General Electric Company to return to work this morning furnished the first instance of semi-violence in connection with the big strike. While no weapons were used, elbow were, and the blocking tactics of fifteen hundred pickets who threw themselves in front of those seeking to gain entrance to the General Electric works building and made it impossible for them to do so.

The sixty policemen who were called out were inadequate to cope with the situation and had it not been for the warnings issued by the strike leaders that the blockade methods were getting too strenuous and that the "tin soldiers" were likely to be ordered out, it is likely that serious injury might have resulted to those who were in the great jam.

No one was hurt but many were prevented from going to work. There is determination on the part of the General Electric officials to protect workers who desire to go back to work, and if the strike leaders continue to endeavor to prevent this, serious complications are looked for.

Only four thousands strikers voted to continue to stay out of 13,000 which indicates that the majority of the men and women are anxious to return to work.

OLIVE CORN PRIZES AWARDED

The exhibit and awarding of prizes in connection with the corn-growing contest among the public school pupils of the town of Olive took place in the new Ashokan school house on Tuesday. The prizes were donated by Jules Breushaud and were awarded as follows:

First prize, $5, to Helen K. Bush of Olive Bridge, age 12 years.

Second prize, $3, to Harold E. Davis of Krumville, age 14 years.

Third prize, $2, to Reginald E. Davis of Ashokan.

Honorable mention to Lester Davis, age 13, of Krumville, Nettie May Bush, age 11 of Olive Bridge and Leonard Davis, age 12, of Krumville.

The judges were Manager W. H. Hook of the County Farm Bureau and A. D. Winne.

LACKAWACK HIGHWAY.

Bids to be Opened For Building New County Road.

Edwin Duffy, state commissioner of highways, will open bids at Albany on October 26, 1915, for the building of the Napanoch-Montela highway in Ulster county. The estimated cost of this improvement is $122,300, and the contract requires its completion on or before October 15, 1917.

This highway will extend from the Kingston-Ellenville road at the hamlet of Napanoch northerly through the hamlets of Lackawack and Montela to the Sullivan county line for a distance of 10.24 miles.

Bituminous macadam, penetration method, 14 feet wide, composed of 6 inch bottom of field or quarry stone and 3 inch top course will be laid. Stone masonry retaining walls 13 inches wide at the top will be used to support the road through certain sections. At the two points where the highway goes over the Rondout creek no metal will be laid.

The town of Wawarsing will build a new 24 foot bridge over the stream through the Van Demark property.

Baker's New Store.

S. Baker & Son, who have leased the Bush building on Broadway, formerly occupied by the National Biscuit Company, will open it as a five, ten and twenty-cent store about the last of the week. The store has been remodeled throughout. The Bakers will run the new store in connection with the store on the Strand.

Sacred Heart Society Officers.

The Sacred Heart Society of St. Joseph's Church had a regular meeting Tuesday evening, October 19, and elected the following officers: Miss Catherine Humphrey, president; Miss Theresa Brophy, secretary.

EMBARGO ON ARMS INTO MEXICO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Wilson today declared an embargo on all arms and ammunition shipments into Mexico. The order was announced through Secretary of State Lansing. Agents of the treasury department will have charge of enforcing the embargo. They will be instructed that shipments of arms and ammunition are to be held up. Special permits will be issued to those desired by General Carranza, yesterday recognized as the head of the de facto government of Mexico.

With the placing of arms and ammunition embargo, officials here urge the collapse of General Villa's cause is near. The wholesale defections in the ranks of his followers and the shutting off of the source of his supply of arms and ammunition, they say, will prevent Villa from holding much territory. The opinion is freely expressed in Mexican circles here that the leader of the so-called convention forces will flee from the country.

The naming of an ambassador to Mexico continues to cause much speculation here. Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri and now special counselor to the interstate commerce commission, is still regarded as the probable selection.

John R. Sullivan, consul, was to have returned at once to Vera Cruz and wind up his work there, and then proceed to Saitillo, his former post.

Father Shannon of Chicago, representing a committee of Catholic clergy that has taken care of priests who fled from Mexico, conferred with Secretary Lansing regarding Mexican matters today. It was understood that Secretary Lansing gave him assurances that the priests can return to Mexico in safety so long as they do not interfere in political affairs of that country.

Fire in Box Car.

Fire in a box car standing on a siding near Deyo's cider mill called out the fire department on Tuesday evening about 7:30 o'clock. The companies made a quick run and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in short order. The car was loaded with grain.

To Remodel Zion Church.

At a meeting called by the Rev. J. T. Mathews, pastor of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, on Monday evening, a movement was started to remodel the church. For that purpose the sum of $250 has already been subscribed.

Motorcyclist Injured.
Byron Rowe of Lloyd was painfully injured Sunday afternoon in a motorcycle accident at Tillson. He was riding on the rear seat of a motorcycle with a friend when an automobile struck them. Rowe was thrown out and badly cut about the face and head. A passing automobile took him to Palmater's in New Paltz, where he was given the attention of a physician.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 20, 1915

The tremendous majority against woman suffrage given in New Jersey's special election Tuesday indicates that this political heresy has spread about as far as it is going to. During the last year woman suffrage has met defeat in twenty-one States, six by direct vote of the people and fifteen through the representatives in the various State Legislatures. It can never carry any populous State except in the event that public opinion is lethargic, as it was recently in California, when the proposition prevailed by a few thousand voters because no effective opposition was put up to the promoters of the scheme. In all the big States sentiment is overwhelmingly opposed to the abolition of sex distinctions, and the proposition is doomed to defeat whenever, as in New Jersey, the interest aroused is as great as in a general election. The registration in New York this year and there is every reason to expect that the Empire State will repeat the verdict of New Jersey, Ohio, Nebraska, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The New Jersey suffragists complain bitterly that political leaders promised loudly to help them and then worked against them secretly. Whether this is so we know not, but it is just like professional politicians. President Wilson himself came out for suffrage, although he is known to be really against it, because he expects to run again, and is looking for votes from the "tempestuous petticoats" in the ten equal suffrage States. "Teddy" Roosevelt was always against it until he thought he saw a chance to get back into politics via the skirt route. Plenty of others with an eye to the main chance came out for suffrage because they calculate that their action will do them no particular harm anyway. If suffrage or a fluke, they might gain something by it. This is one of the deplorable evils of the situation, since there have always been so many temptations to politicians to be hypocritical that this extra one is pretty nearly the last straw.

They call this an "off year" in politics, but something like four hundred men are running for office this year in Ulster county. The number is made so large by the multiplicity of town offices to be filled. It is impossible for us to make special mention of each one of the Republican candidates, and it is out of the question to give space to any of the Democrats. We know that there are a lot of mischief good fellows on both sides. We are not of the type that thinks everybody on its own side a servant of the Lord and everybody in the opposition a minion of Beelzebub. We suppose that the voters in the various districts will do considerable splitting of tickets for personal reasons. This is pretty bad practice. The prospects of the United States requires the restoration of the Republican party to power, and the interests of the State of New York demand the retention of the same party in power. The best way to bring these things about is to keep the Republican party lines unbroken. The election of a second, unimportant officer like a constable, who may never be heard of since he has own town, has just a little influence on the biggest issues before the people. This is no time for paying foolish compliments.

The high standing of Robert W. Flemming of the Eleventh Ward and William H. Van Ethen of the Eleventh Ward has most satisfactorily led to the nomination by other parties after that had been named as the Republican candidates in their respective wards. There are many other Republican candidates whose standing in the community has entitled them to endorsement by other parties and such endorsements could have been made gracefully. In all such cases, however, the voters will see that these candidates do not suffer, and will make their election sure by giving them big majorities.

Among the young men of Kingston few possess a wider acquaintance than Edward R. Schepmoes, the Republican nominee for supervisor in the Tenth Ward. Since childhood he has lived in the ward, watching its progress, becoming thoroughly acquainted with its residents and their needs, and always actively identified in every movement for the civic betterment of the Tenth Ward and the city at large. These characteristics commend him to the householders and taxpayers, who largely compose the voters of the ward, and they can feel sure that at all times they would be represented by a supervisor who would always be alert to their interests. Honest, courteous and competent, Mr. Schepmoes enjoys a large measure of public confidence which he has never abused, and Tenth Ward voters should make sure his election by a big majority.

Charles E. Bishop has been one of Rondout's foremost citizens for many years. To get such of his calibre and standing in public office is the ambition of every voter, who knows that in such circumstances he will be fully and thoroughly represented. The voters of the Seventh Ward, therefore, should be delighted at the pleasing opportunity offered to them this year by Mr. Bishop's nomination for supervisor on the Republican ticket. Mr. Bishop is not playing politics but is looking after the interests of his constituents, and his record of achievement when he represented the ward in the board of aldermen bears witness to that fact. Every ordinance and every resolution which he then offered was for the benefit of the people who had elected him. His wide business training and experience, combined with his past political performance make him especially desirable to represent the important Seventh Ward. Mr. Bishop is too good a man to be turned down.

The county of Ulster as well as the respective towns is to be congratulated on the fact that Supervisors William S. Hartshorn of Plettskill and Philip Schantz of Lloyd will be re-elected without opposition. Mr. Hartshorn as chairman of the board has been uniformly fair, courteous and just—three traits which characterized Supervisor Schantz when he was chairman. Both have rendered and are now rendering valuable services to the county as well as to the towns, and it is to be hoped they will continue such services for many years to come.

Two more towns of Ulster county in which there will be no opposition to the Republican nominees for supervisor are Hardenbergh and Kingston. William S. Gray is the nominee in Hardenbergh and Robert F. Charlton in Kingston. Both are men of high standing in their respective communities, with a thorough knowledge of their town's needs and a comprehensive understanding of the needs of the county. Both towns are to be congratulated on the selection of such representatives and the assurance of their action.

Entertainment at Esopus.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church gave a "Famous Follies" on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Characters: The woman, Mrs. Charles Martin; cake seller, Mrs. Charles Martin; old soldier, J. H. Beaver, Jr.; fortune teller, Mrs. W. H. Austin; boot black, Gould Ganoung; baker, Leslie Mott; Indian woman, Mrs. Fred Martin; pickle vender, Mrs. K. Gardner; hockey-pokey man, C. C. Beaver; popcorn, Mrs. Alex. Smith; doughnuts, Mrs. Leslie Mott; Viola Booth, peddler, J. P. Ganoung; tambourine girl, Miss Marian Mott; hurdy-gurdy man, Mr. Sotom; corn cure, William Sotom; auctioneer, Charles Martin; peanut vender, Alfred Robergine; apple woman, Mrs. M. W. Roberts; blind musician, John Beaver; fruit man, John Sotom; candy seller, Florence Booth; flower girls, Helen Cole and Hazel Mott; coffee vender, Herbert Cole.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Oct. 20.—An auto party consisting of friends from Newburgh and Kingston called on Mrs. Rebecca Snyder on Sunday last. Winfield Brady with his gasoline engine has been treshing for people in this place the past week. Winfield Snyder and Lynian Feiten are draws as jurors this week. Mr. Worlson is now employed in the city.

Apples are quite plentiful but not quite badly. Mr. and Mrs. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Fredenburg and Miss Grace Snyder recently took an automobile trip through the mountains, which was very much enjoyed. The mountains are just in their beauty. Mr. Boyer recently had about thirty chickens stolen. Now chicken thieves better beware.

WALKER VALLEY.

Walker Valley, Oct. 20. Mrs. R. A. Hamilton of Brooklyn is spending a few days at H. B. Graham's. Mrs. Henry Polhemus is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Carman, at Thompson Ridge. Mrs. James Hoadway has walking typhoid fever. H. B. Graham spent the past week with his family here. Mrs. J. C. Dwyer is in Washington for J. S. Walker, who is ill. Mr. Thomas Mene is nursing in Middletown. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beckley of Brooklyn are enjoying over the arrival of a little daughter, Helen. Mrs. Becker was formerly Mrs. M. H. Morgan of this place. A lot of hay from this place attended the services held in St. Paul's M. E. church Thursday evening by the Salvation Army of Newburgh. All felt much better, feeling they are doing a good work for God. Mrs. E. H. Todd gave a fine address to the Junior League Sunday afternoon.

Optimistic Thought.

Wish rather to be well spoken of than to be rich.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

The Pessimist—"Would anything tempt you to commit suicide?"
The Optimist—"Never! I'd die first."—Life.

Ilustions—"I tell ye, a dollar don't go far in N'York!" The Wise Man—"Huh! Ought to, seeing the speed it goes at."—Judge.

"Does your employer give you any kind of a stipend for your week's work?" "Not much he don't. He pays me regular wages." Baltimore American.

Mr. Bragg—"I object to being called a 'gay Lothario.' Of course, I am not engaged to any particular girl, but—" Mrs. Snapple—"Of course you're not. If she were particular, you couldn't be."—Boston Transcript.

"Well, Dink, how are you, and your new husband sitting along?" "Furs' rate, Miss Betty. I been 'greatly spruced in dat man.'" "Does he treat you all right?" "Yes, sum. He sho do, and I ain't had ter hit 'im but one time. I never seed no nuxer leas as quick as he do." Birmingham Age-Herald.

"You say this speech you are preparing will be the turning point of your career?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "this speech will be the effort of my life. It will decide whether I will have to keep depending on politics for a living, or whether I can go on the lecture platform and make some real money."—Washington Star.

Suspicious.

Stephen Borsal, utilities commissioner of the Philippines, said in his recent visit to New York that his job was a thankless one. "Yes," Mr. Borsal declared, "I'm as positive about the thankfulness of that commission as the grocer was positive about the strictly cash basis of his business. This grocer, you know, said to a man who wanted credit: 'Why, mister, I wouldn't trust my own feelings.'"—Washington Post.

The Madness of Hamlet.

The late John B. Herreshoff, the famous blind yacht builder, once said at Bristol. "It is hard to explain how, I, being blind, can design yachts—hard because the average man is so ignorant of yacht construction. 'When I talk yacht construction to the average man I'm in the position of the critic to whom a chap said: 'I want to see Hamlet last night.' 'Him, indeed!' said the critic, wrinkling his high brow. And now tell me, your good fellow, do you think Hamlet was mad?' 'I know darn well he was,' said the other. 'There weren't three dozen people in the house.'"—New York Telegraph.

Correct.

A cockney solicitor, who was characteristically mixed up in the use of his "P.S." happened to meet one of the wits of the American bar, relates The Buffalo Commercial. The Englishman commenting on the legal profession of New York, said that his members were very proficient and learned, but that they were absolutely ignorant on the subject of "anecdotes."

Not That Kind.

Richard Harding Davis was talking about Germany. "She seems to be having her own way now," he said, doubtfully, "but, of course, she will be licked in the end, for that is what the Quadruple Entente declares."

"But Germany, even if licked, will be hard to manage. Materlinck says that Germany, laboring to pay a vast war indemnity, will be the slave of Europe for the next century. But I hold that Germany's position will be more like Sam Smith's. 'Sam was smoking and reading Brisbane's editorials in the kitchen recker while his wife did a wash—his wife did nine washes weekly. 'You lazy worm,' the tired woman would help me turn this man's wrist.'"—New York World.

SAMSONVILLE.

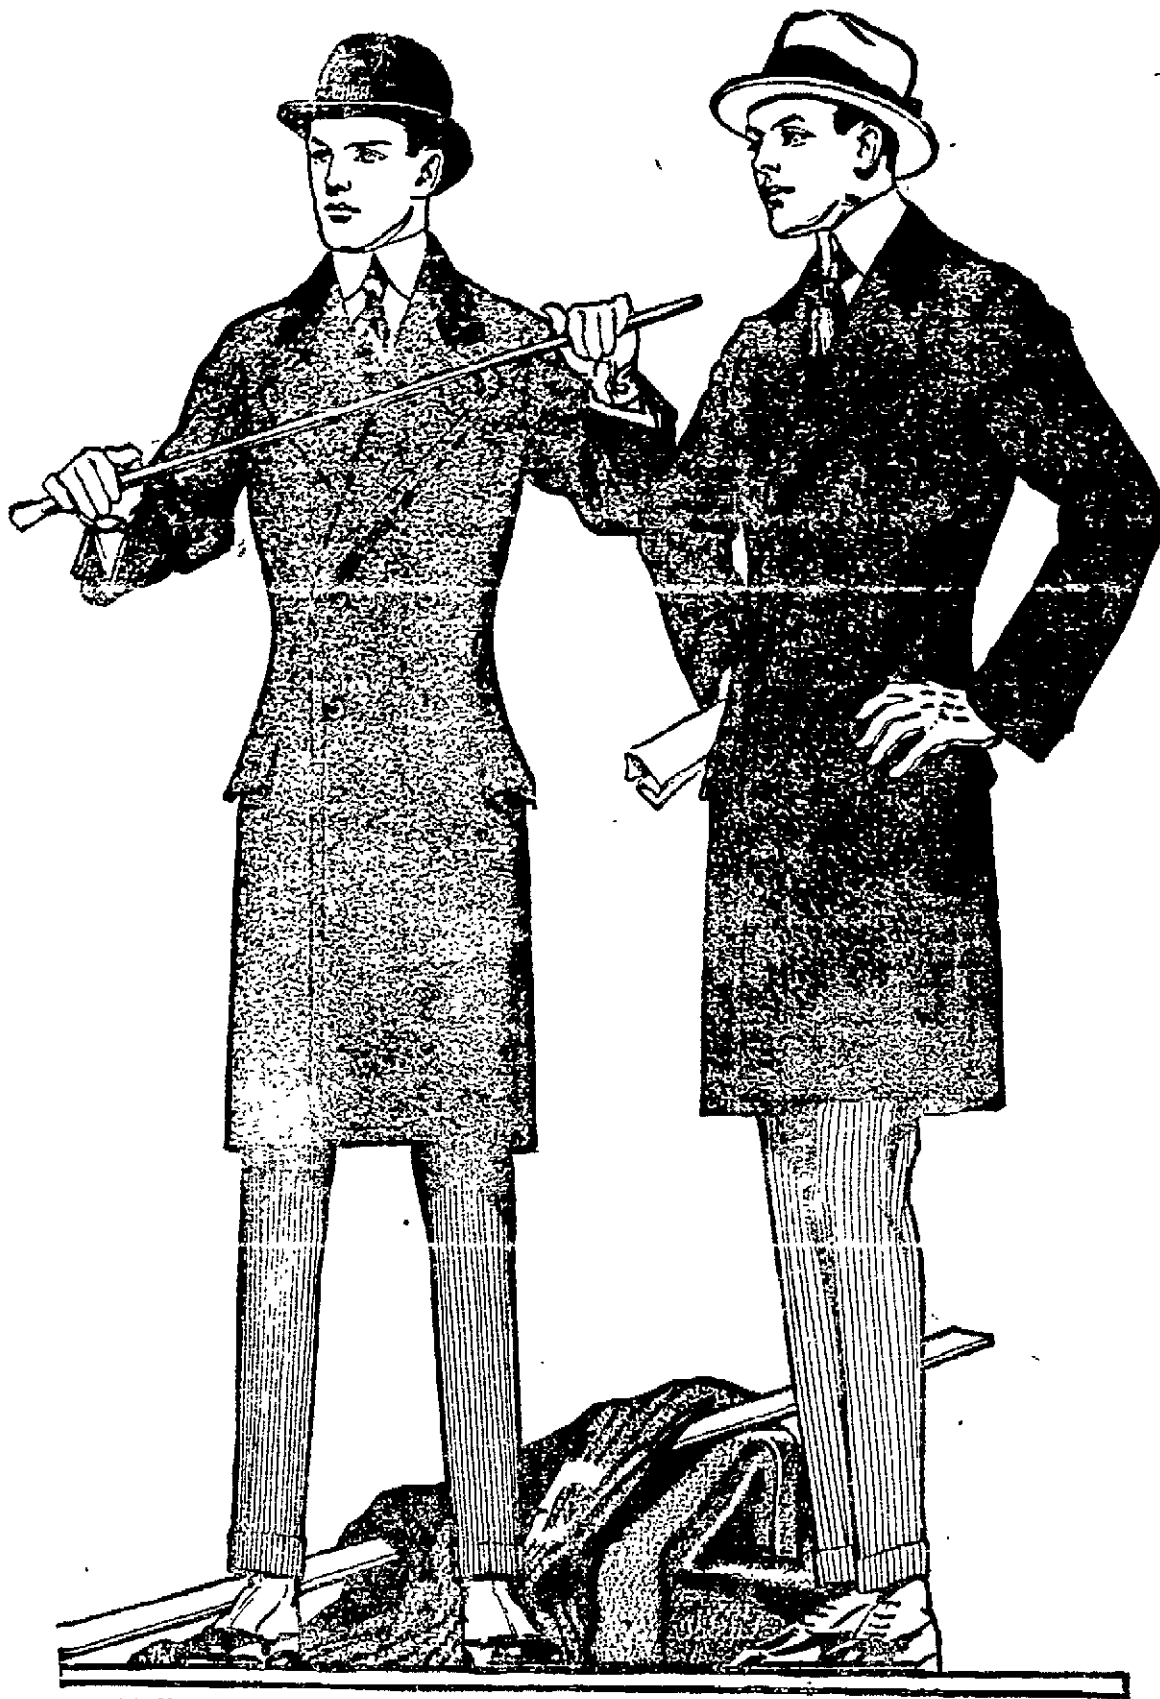

Samsonville, Oct. 20.—Bally Day services will be held on October 31, instead of October 24, as stated last week. Our Sunday school is not as large as attended as it should be. The children and the older ones, too, ought to take more interest in it. Come out on Bally Day and help and then keep coming.

The Rev. Mr. Abner of Acorn Hill preached an excellent sermon to a large congregation in the M. E. Church Sunday in the absence of our pastor, Mr. Braunsien.

The ladies of the church will serve meals in the hall on election day as usual.

Plans are under way for the annual Thanksgiving supper, November 11. This will be a hot chicken supper with all the fixings. An entertainment of local talent will also be given. More particulars will be given later.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Haver spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer.

GRADE CROSSING SAFETY.

Questions Suggested For Discussion at Coming Conference.

Under the auspices of the Up-State Public Service Commission there will be a conference at Syracuse on October 27, to be presided over by the Hon. Seymour Van Santvoord, chairman of the commission.

At this conference ways and means will be discussed for avoiding or lessening dangers at grade crossings of electric railways and state highways.

A. J. Deer, president of the New York State Automobile Association, has received a large number of replies from the presidents of the 100 clubs of the association, assuring him that they will be present at the conference. The Public Service Commission has also invited presidents of all electric railways of the state to attend the conference.

A tentative list of questions to be discussed at the conference, has been issued by the Public Service Commission for the purpose of directing discussion along practical lines, as follows:

- What can practically be done to increase the range of vision at crossings where necessary?
- What is a reasonable range of vision on the electric railroad track, and from what point on the highway?
- In what manner could the expense involved in securing such extended length of vision be provided for?
- What crossing signs should be erected at crossings with a view of standardizing such signs? Where should they be located with reference to the crossing?
- What, if any, additional warning signs or indications should be provided?
- Is it desirable to have such signs illuminated by night? If so, how?
- What, if any, improvement might be made in the matter of warning signals now given by electric cars approaching crossings?
- What if any regulation of vehicles approaching crossings can practically be accomplished, and how?
- What system of signalling should be employed by flagmen at crossings where flagmen are stationed?
- What practical steps can be taken at this time for the elimination of specially dangerous grade crossings of highways and electric railroads?
- What, if any, changes in methods of operation of electric cars approaching crossings could practically be made?
- The Public Service Commission having suggested this conference in the interest of safety at electric grade crossings and for the protection and benefit of motorists, the New York State Automobile Association urges its members to attend the meeting, prepared to participate actively in its deliberations.
- The Public Service Commission desires the fullest co-operation of street railway officials and officers and members of all automobile clubs to the end that they may jointly evolve methods and plans that will protect human life at grade crossings of electric roads and highways.
- The rapid extension of New York's system of improved roads and the extraordinary increase in the number of automobiles, has resulted in many serious or fatal accidents. The time is ripe for this move, and automobileists of the state should respond promptly and heartily to the call of these state officials, who have undertaken this beneficent movement.

SHERWOOD T. WELLS.

For the past two years Sherwood T. Wells has represented the Fifth ward of the city of Kingston in the board of supervisors and has been recognized by his fellow members as being active at all times in the interests of his constituents, besides the city and county in general. His record in that short time is one to be proud of and the voters of his district will see that he is returned in November. Mr. Wells has been in the employ of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company for the past twenty-one years and enjoys the confidence of his employers. He is a member of Franklin Lodge No. 37, Knights of Pythias, and an active member of Corbis Hose Company. Mr. Wells is highly esteemed in the Ponckhockie section of the city on account of his sterling traits of character and his sunny disposition both in his work and in his home life. His re-nomination is a deserved recognition of his untiring efforts in the board of supervisors and there is no doubt but that he will be re-elected by a handsome vote.

Special Meeting of the Winners.
A special meeting of the Winners Class of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school will be held at P. M. Dressels, 456 Broadway, tonight at 8 o'clock. Mr. Dressels would like to have at least 50 members present at this meeting. Be sure to come.

Shortened Length of Lance.

How to get ideal heating!

When building or remodeling, ask any good architect

Get estimate from your local dealer

First: Follow your architect's advice to have radiator heating. Appropriate the money for this before you start your plans. Second: Examine the shapes and patterns of AMERICAN Radiators and IDEAL Boilers in our showrooms, or see them as illustrated in our catalogs. Third: Tell your heating contractor to furnish and install should you lease. Never wears or rusts out; serves you daily with comfortable pleasant heat for your whole house with much less trouble than it takes to run one stove for one room. A million buildings at home and abroad have been equipped and are immediately put in the "preferred class."

The most important phrase in your building specifications is: "To be heated with an IDEAL Boiler and AMERICAN Radiators." When this is done, it settles for all time the question of comfort and economy in your home, for these outfits last for generations; never need repair, and can be operated by a child.

Millions of dollars have been saved to property-owners by IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators in reducing bills for heating all kinds of buildings. Any local fuel including cheapest grades of soft coal, screenings, pea, buckwheat, coke, lignite, oil, gas, wood, etc., can be used with highest results.

Country or city houses, old or new, can be easily outfitted and all dealers everywhere know how to put in IDEAL-AMERICAN heating. You will be surprised at the reasonable first cost, and bear in mind the fuel saving, cleanliness, and absence of labor that you will enjoy as long as your building lasts.

Send at once for our booklet "Ideal Heating" whether you are intending to remodel or build now or later. Call at any of our showrooms, you will not be pressed to purchase and you will gather a fund of heating information which will be invaluable. Act NOW!

An unfailing, stationary Vacuum Cleaner—in sizes now at $150 up!

You should know about our ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner, for dustless, complete cleaning of rooms, furnishings, etc. Sits in basement or side room and cleans through iron suction pipe running to each floor. Easily put in OLD buildings. Fully GUARANTEED. Last as long as the building—like radiator heating. Send for catalog.

These IDEAL-AMERICAN outfits are known throughout the world as the most successful, most healthful and most economical heating for any building—cottage, residence, apartment, hotel, hospital, church, school, store, factory, etc.

The installation of IDEAL-AMERICAN heating is the best and most important investment you can make in your property. It invariably increases the permanent property value or enables you to command 10% to 15% higher rental prices than buildings with other heating systems. It gives you a comfortable pleasant heat for your whole house with much less trouble than it takes to run one stove for one room. A million buildings at home and abroad have been equipped and are immediately put in the "preferred class."

Country or city houses, old or new, can be easily outfitted and all dealers everywhere know how to put in IDEAL-AMERICAN heating. PREVENTIVE CARE OF INCIPIENT INSANE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 20.—Governor Whitman is deeply interested in the possibility of discovering and treating early cases of insanity before they reach an aggravated stage. He feels that "millions for care and cure, but nothing for prevention" is a poor policy for the state to pursue in dealing with insanity. He intends to lend his active support to the State Hospital Commission in seeing that New York state tackles in earnest the problem of preventing such forms of insanity as are preventable. Henceforth some of the thousands of the several millions spent yearly on the insane in this state will be expended on prevention.

It is known that many persons suffering from milder forms of mental disorder can be effectively treated in their own homes or in dispensaries instead of being confined in state hospitals. Insanity, like tuberculosis, is more curable in the early stages. By means of dispensaries with field agents in connection with them it will be possible to reach many of the mentally ill before their chances of recovery are seriously impaired and to treat them at a time when the expenditure of $1 can do as much as $10 later. And with the out-patient departments extending into the various communities the skilled care and observance now possible only in the hospitals, many more convalescing patients can be safely paroled to their families and friends and later permanently discharged.

As the fourteen state hospitals house nearly 34,000 patients, although their rated capacity is less than 28,000, the need of preventive measures is evident. The saving in maintenance charges and new buildings will amount to many thousands of dollars yearly.

Treating Insanity at Home.

Under an amendment to the insanity law passed two years ago, the superintendent of each state hospital is authorized to establish an out-patient department or dispensary, assign a physician to it, and employ a paid field agent in connection with it. Up to the present time full advantage of this law has not been taken. Seven of the fourteen state hospitals already have an out-patient department, but only three of the hospitals have paid field agents, and two of these are sharing one agent.

The governor, following a conference with the State Hospital Commission, during which he received a report as to the steps already taken under the law and the benefits secured, requested the commission today to extend the system of out-patient departments by establishing five new mental dispensaries, enlarging the activities of those already started, and employing a field agent in connection with each of the dispensaries. The medical member of the commission, Dr. James V. May, as well as his lay colleagues, Andrew D. Morgan and William R. Friday, are heartily in accord with the plans outlined. Commissioner Friday, who is Governor Whitman's appointee, has from the start taken a special interest in extending the scope of the state hospital's work into the communities of their districts.

$530,000 Saved Last Year.

Through special efforts of the State Hospital Commission last year, the number of state hospital patients on parole was increased by 439. Each patient cared for in his own home represents an annual saving to the state of $203; consequently the saving in maintenance effected by this increase in the number on parole was $89,312. Furthermore every patient put on parole makes room for one new patient in a state hospital without new construction. If new construction had been necessary to house these 439 patients, it would have cost the state about $1,000 a bed, or a total of $449,000. Thus the total saving to the state by the extension of the parole system amounted to the striking sum of $530,312.

The obvious disparity between the state's necessary expenditures for the next few years, and its present resources make it imperative that every such opportunity for economy should be carefully, but promptly and effectively utilized.

Paroling of patients from the state hospitals can be done safely only when there is proper and adequate supervision of the patients after they have left the institution. The hospital authorities agree that further increase in the number of patients on parole can safely be brought about, and the parole system can realize its full possibilities only through a well organized system of out-patient departments with field agents.

What a Mental Dispensary is.

A mental dispensary is a regularly appointed place where people may go at a specified day and hour for diagnosis and advice by a mental specialist. A field agent in connection with it visits the homes and sees that the doctor's directions are carried out. By finding suitable employment, helping the family understand the patient's condition, and adjusting the home conditions, the field agent will greatly increase the effectiveness of the doctor's efforts.

The hospitals do excellent curative work with patients ill enough to be kept there continuously. Their splendid professional staffs should be made available not only to patients whose condition is so acute and whose symptoms are so noticeable as to result in commitment, but also to that large class of individuals who are suffering from early stages of mental disorders of a less obtrusive nature. Specialists agree that many of these persons who are on the verge of a nervous or mental breakdown can be helped by prompt advice, treatment, and intelligent attention to their surroundings.

This treatment and help can be given them while they continue to reside and are maintained in their own homes.

Furthermore by means of these dispensaries and field agents many persons whose mental disease inevitably must grow worse and require treatment in an institution can be found and taken to a hospital before they have committed some act of violence, perhaps an attack on a public official such as startles the community from time to time.

Kind of Cases at Dispensaries.

To mental dispensaries come many cases of a type only seen in institutions at a much later stage—a child brought by a mother whose quick intuition has told her that he is "different" from the others; a man who has found his accustomed work grows suddenly difficult and is conscious of loss of memory; a youth who fears that he is hopelessly entangled in some sexual difficulty but thinks there is just a possibility that a good "mind doctor" might help him see a way out of it; the anxious wife of a man who "was always a good husband although he drank a bit" but has lately become morose, irritable and suspicious and has lost four jobs in quick succession because "people are all against him"; the brother of a patient in a state hospital who anxiously inquires if it is "absolutely sure" that he will become insane because his brother did and who has worried so much about it that he can think of nothing else.

Heretofore, without dispensaries and competent medical advice readily available, such persons on the verge of nervous or mental breakdown have not received help in time and many of them are insane today as a result of this neglect and delay. The system of state dispensaries and field agents is founded on the theory that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Five New Dispensaries.

Under this plan, dispensaries would be opened by the following five hospitals which do not have them now: Buffalo State Hospital, Buffalo; Binghamton State Hospital, Binghamton; Middletown State Hospital, Middletown; Utica State Hospital, Utica, and the Willard State Hospital, at Willard, Seneca County.

The dispensary work would be extended in the following seven institutions where it is already established and a field agent will be employed for each hospital: St. Lawrence State Hospital, near Ogdensburg; Long Island State Hospital, in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn; Hudson River State Hospital, near Poughkeepsie; Gowanda State Hospital, Gowanda; Erie County Hospital, Collins, Erie County; Manhattan State Hospital, Ward's Island, New York City; Kings Park State Hospital at Kings Park, L. I., and Central Islip State Hospital, Central Islip, L. I.

The Manhattan and Central Islip State Hospitals now employ a field agent jointly. The Rochester State Hospital already maintains an adequate and effective out-patient department with a field agent. The development of the new Mohansic State Hospital at Yorktown, Westchester county, has not proceeded to a point where a dispensary or field agent is needed.

Will Save Money and Prevent Insanity. The 1913 law authorizing the establishment of dispensaries and the employment of field workers is considered by high authorities to mark an important step in the care of the insane as has been taken in a generation. When the additional dispensaries now contemplated are established and more field agents employed, the governor is confident that an actual saving greatly exceeding the cost of the new facilities will be effected, in addition to a great saving in human health and happiness. He is convinced that practically the only means of lessening the serious over-crowding in the state hospitals and paring down the tremendous expense of maintaining so many thousands of insane people to a vigorous and well-directed effort to prevent insanity, especially by providing facilities for earlier diagnosis and treatment outside the hospitals. He believes that the extension of the out-patient department system constitutes the most effective preventive measure and the most economical policy which the state can undertake at this time. Mental Hygiene Committee Will Help.

The Committee on Mental Hygiene of the State Charities Aid Association, which has had practical experience for four years in conducting a mental dispensary in New York City, and doing field work with approximately 1,700 mental cases will co-operate with the state authorities in extending the system of out-patient departments as planned.

PRELIMINARIES TO WILSON WEDDING

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 20.—With the return to this city late today of Margaret Wilson, eldest daughter of the president, plans for the series of receptions that are to precede and follow the wedding will be made. It is expected that with the formal announcement of the date, which will likely be made very soon, Miss Wilson will arrange a series of musicales to be held in the White House and which her father's bride to be will meet such of her intimates as she does not already know.

Last night was the first evening since the announcement of this engagement that the president did not visit at the Galt home. He came back from New Jersey very tired and went to bed within half an hour. Friends of Mrs. Galt said today that she has completed most of her wedding shopping and that the majority of her costumes are ready for use. All questions regarding the wedding dress remain unanswered. Even Mrs. Galt's closest intimates do not know what it will be like. No information concerning it will be available, it is believed, until it is entirely completed.

Although brown predominated in the street gowns that have been made for the future mistress of the white house, it was learned today that in the selection of her "party frocks" she has been decidedly impartial and has more than half a dozen different colors with rose, lavender and blues predominating.

FOR CORONER.

George Suiter of Marlborough, Republican Nominee, For That Office.

George Suiter of Marlborough, who is the Republican nominee for coroner, is one of the three coroners of the county at the present time, having been appointed by Governor Whitman on June 22 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alexander C. Hasbrouck of Highland.

GEORGE SUITER.

Geographical reasons alone point out the desirability of electing Mr. Suiter. Kingston city has a coroner in the person of Ernest A. Kelly; the Catskill mountain section is provided with a coroner in the person of H. Lee Breckhaup, and southern Ulster is cared for by Coroner Suiter. His Democratic opponent is a resident of Kingston, where another coroner is not needed.

Mr. Suiter was born at Canajoharie, Montgomery county, and is a son of William Suiter. Thirty-two years ago he removed to Marlborough and has resided there since. For a number of years he has been engaged in fruit growing.

His acknowledged ability led to his being elected town collector of the town of Marlborough in November, 1905, and he served as such during the years, 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909. In the last mentioned year he was elected supervisor by a large majority, and served for two years. After the death of Coroner Hasbrouck, Mr. Suiter's appointment was urged by leading citizens of southern Ulster and he was appointed to fill the vacancy by Governor Whitman on June 22 of this year.

Socially, Coroner Suiter is a member of Advance Lodge, No. 40, I. O. O. F., of Marlborough, in which he has held all the chairs; Mount Olive Encampment, No. 65, I. O. O. F., of Newburgh, of which he is master of finance; Court, Marlborough, No. 50, Foresters of America, of which order he is the present district deputy; Frank L. Snyder Company, No. 50, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias; Marlborough Grange and Marlborough Hose Company, of which he is president.

Coroner Suiter is the present Republican county committeeman of his district and for eight years was Republican town committeeman.

Mr. Retailer, you and this newspaper have a common interest in seeing each other grow.

We are dependent on each other. We can help each other or hold each other back.

When a manufacturer advertises his product in this newspaper he is investing his money in this city.

That benefits you. But that advertisement is also interesting people in goods you carry on your shelf.

You should work with the newspaper by showing these goods in your window at the time they are being advertised.

It would benefit you and widen the influence of this newspaper.

THE THREE P'S.

There are three terms that are applied to the Want Ads of the newspaper and each begins with a P—Popular, Preferred and Prolific.

Each one of these terms is perfectly applicable to The Freeman Wants and each is ample proof of the great value of The Freeman Want Ads.

If The Freeman Wants are popular, they must meet the demands of the public, that is, make good; if they are preferred they must be the best form of advertising there is; if they are prolific, it means that they produce rapidly and in great quantity.

Don't you think it would pay you to become a reader and user of The Freeman Want Ads?

A Living Model Will Exhibit THE NEW MODES IN Annette Kellerman Knitted Garments of Fashion

MISS FLORENCE RAWLEY

A beautiful young pupil of Annette Kellermann, will pose these new Sweater Coats here

In order to give a fitting display of the newest styles in Annette Kellermann Knitted Garments of Fashion, the manufacturer of these celebrated Sweater Coats is sending a charming young model to this store to illustrate their many desirable features.

More and more the sweater coat becomes an indispensable garment of dress for every woman, for the new models are not merely coats of utility, but are real "garments of fashion."

ADMIRABLY ADAPTED FOR STREET WEAR, BUSINESS, SHOPPING, GOLF, MOTORING, RIDING, SPORTS AND GENERAL WEAR

There is no garment so "comfy," so smart and swaggy as the sweater coat, and of late the styles are beautiful and becoming. This is especially true of Annette Kellermann Knitted Garments of Fashion for which we have the exclusive sale in Kingston.

With a somewhat theatrical setting, a charming young pupil of Miss Kellermann (the famous diver and physical culture specialist) will give a series of artistic poses, illustrating the various purposes of these garments, and will explain their many styles and comfort features.

FAMOUS ALASKAN "MUSHER" WITH DOGS TO SERVE FRANCE.

"Scotty" Allen, the most famous dog driver in Alaska, and winner of the great Alaskan sweepstakes, the annual dog race in the northern country, is on his way to France with a number of his dogs to supply transportation for French reconnoitering parties during the winter.

The difficulty of getting through the snows in northern France and the Vosges last winter was the despair of the French army. Capt. Rene R. Haas, who had spent some time in Alaska conceived the idea of using the famous dogs and sledges of the northern country as a method of transportation and finally went to Alaska and persuaded "Scotty" Allen to go to France with 100 of his best Alaskan dogs and mail-amutes.

Allen has won the All-Alaskan Sweepstakes several years in succession and is considered the best dog driver in the world. He has maintained a speed of more than 18 miles an hour for several days at a time in some of his races.

The pictures of Allen and his dogs was made as they came ashore at Seattle, Wash.

What a Mother Told Her Engaged Daughter

"No, I'm not worrying about your cooking—the cook book gives just about all the help you'll need.

"But there's one thing that doesn't seem to be emphasized anywhere near enough in the cook books I've seen.

"That is about cooking starchy foods. As I've been told, the little starch cells are particularly slow cookers.

"I had that brought home to me very strongly when you were about 18 months old.

"You didn't take much to oatmeal, and of course I wanted you to eat all you could possibly hold.

"Well, one day a neighbor advised H-O. She said it was unreasonable to expect you to like ordinary rolled oats cooked for an hour or so.

"She told me about H-O Oatmeal—how the H-O Company cooks it for 2 hours before they put it in the packages—so that we can thoroughly cook it in only 20 minutes.

"And you took to H-O from the start. The flavor was entirely different.

"Well, gracious me, I started to talk about starchy foods and now I'm giving a regular lecture about H-O."

Any thrifty engaged girl or housewife will be equally pleased to learn that H-O costs less than half-cent a dish.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1379—A Comfortable and Practical Dress for Mother's Girl. Girl's Dress with Bloomers, and With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

This becoming little model, has raglan sleeves which may be finished in short length, in flowing or gathered style, or in wrist length with a band cuff. The dress is a one piece model and has a convertible collar and front, so that it may be closed high or rolled open at the neck edge, in real "grown up" fashion. The bloomers are ample and comfortable, a splendid substitute for petticoats, and may be made to button to an underwaist. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It is good for linen, line, galatea, percale, taffeta or tub silk, crepe, pique, corduroy, gingham, seersucker or chambray. It will require 2 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for the dress, and 1 1/4 yards for the bloomers, for a 6 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

The following delegates of the Methodist Episcopal Church attended the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Ulster County Sunday School Association in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, Kingston, Tuesday: Mrs. John Lynn, Jr., Mrs. Wallace Mabie, Mrs. George W. Shultis; alternates, Mrs. E. A. Bookhout, Miss Mary F. Bishop. The sessions are very interesting and instructive, and all who can ought to avail themselves of the opportunity of attending.

Can You Go Straight?

The above question is not intended to be personal. We are quite sure that you are a good, steady going citizen; but, all the same, we are equally sure that you cannot walk straight without the help of your eyes. Naturally your tendency is to walk in a circle, and you would do this if your eyes were not constantly correcting the tendency.

You may easily test this. Place two stakes in your garden about eight feet apart, take up a position some sixty feet away, get some one to blindfold you and then try to walk between the two stakes. You will find that you are going in a circle.

Why? The explanation is very simple. You walk faster with one foot than with the other. Everybody does. One leg always takes a longer stride, with the result that you naturally walk more to one side than the other. Men who have been lost in the Australian bush have marked the trees they passed and found that they again and again returned to their starting tree after describing a complete circle.—Dundee Advertiser.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WANTS MORE MONEY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 20.—Dr. Herman M. Biggs, state commissioner of health, is of the opinion that his department was slighted by the legislature of the present year and feels confident that the mistake which it made in so doing will be rectified during the coming session.

Dr. Biggs feels that although the appropriation his department desired for the division of sanitary supervisors was made as reasonable as possible, it was cut down to one-half the amount and that such an act on the part of the legislature was extremely unfortunate.

It has been a source of keen regret to all those interested in public health administration in this state, is the comment Dr. Biggs makes in this respect. "We have all felt that the work of the sanitary supervisors has been not only increasingly important and useful, but that it is really absolutely essential to the proper administration of the public health law. We profoundly hope that the next legislature, when the facts are placed fully before them, may be induced to rectify this mistake. Such actions on the part of the legislature are in my judgment as a rule the result of a lack of full information as to the facts and are due to a desire for establishing a record for economy."

Dr. Biggs calls attention to the fact that during the session of the legislature of 1915 numerous bills were introduced and says that if enacted would have repealed every provision of importance of the new health law.

The state department of health has been able to so sufficiently secure the confidence of the people of the state during less than a year that they entered a vehement and effective protest against any radical change," continues Dr. Biggs. He then declared that in the interest of economy and as a part of the general policy, it was proposed by the legislature to largely reduce the appropriations for the support of the health department.

An attempt on the part of the state hospital commission to secure larger appropriations than was possible in 1915 will be made during the coming year. It will be remembered that a large amount was cut from the appropriation, although every effort to convince the legislature leaders that it was imperative was made.

At the present time there are not sufficient funds at the disposal of the state hospital commission to continue certain special work which was inaugurated but temporarily ceased, it is said.

Irrespective of the declaration of disappointment on the part of officials of the state department of health and of the state hospital commission, the chairman of the several financial committees of the legislature were of the firm opinion that the cuts that they recommended and made were just and had to be made in the interests of economy. It-trenchment has been the hue and cry in the state for several years and those who were responsible for the pruning of health and hospital commission items maintain that the slicing of items resulted from the determination to reduce the expenses of the state and not to impair efficiency or to cripple any particular branch of government.

It is quite likely that the budget for the year 1916 will be larger than that of any other year before it is finally pruned and passed.

SERVIA INVADED
BY BULGARIANS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Athens, Oct. 20.—Four Bulgarian armies are advancing into the interior of Serbia over a front 150 miles long.

The main Bulgarian army under General Bogacheff is only thirty-five miles from Nish the Serb capital.

Violent fighting is in progress between Anglo-French troops and Bulgarians in the vicinity of Vranje, it is reported today from Salonika, where many wounded have arrived since yesterday morning.

It is reported to have been occupied by the Bulgarians.

The Bulgarian army which occupied Kitchina is continuing westward in spite of obstinate resistance, its evident objective being Uskub in the Vardar valley. Uskub lies at the junction of the Salonika-Nish railway and the railroad from Mitrovica.

Hundreds of civilians at Vranje are reported to have been shot by the Bulgarians. The town was set afire and partly destroyed.

A Bulgarian column operating in the mountains near Surdulitza, 15 miles northeast of Vranje gained an important success which has put the troops within five miles of the Salonika-Nish railway at that point.

Bulgarian horsemen of the royal guards executed a brilliant cavalry charge against the Serbian position despite the ruggedness of the country. The Serbs were attacked in front and on the flank, three hundred of them being put to the sabre, including two officers.

Hundreds of Serbs are reported from Sofia to have been captured in this engagement.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Navy department officials today were seriously considering recommending that five hundred men and officers on the two German interned ships at Norfolk, Va., the Kronprinz Wilhelm and the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, be taken off the vessels and placed in a detention camp. The announcement yesterday that three more officers from one of the ships had violated their parole and escaped has so incensed officials of the navy department that it is considered that stringent measures will be taken at once to prevent any more escapes.

New York, Oct. 20.—Although some declines occurred in the initial trading on the stock exchange today the tone was strong and nearly everything on the list was in brisk demand at advancing prices.

The stocks that showed opening losses reflected this condition and after first sales moved upward.

A feature of the dealings was the prominence of many issues that had not previously been included in the active list. American Woolen advanced 1% to 57%, Central Leather a point to 55% and Distillers 2% to 11%.

Steel Common opened 3% higher at 86%, and after receding to 85% rose to 86% on the next few transactions.

American Smelting was in scant supply, rising a point to 95%. American Car and Foundry sold at a new high record of 13% making a gain of 1% over yesterday's close.

Colorado Fuel started 1% lower at 18%, followed by a quick rally to 19%.

New Haven dropped 1% to 82, but quickly improved to 82%. Bethlehem Steel again lifted its high record, selling at 51% at the outset, a gain of 1 1/2%.

The tone throughout the late forenoon was irregular. U. S. Steel sold down 1/2% to 86 and Bethlehem Steel lost five points to 505.

Allis Chalmers sold at 44 1/2, a gain of 1% for the morning. Inspiration which closed yesterday at 43 1/2, sold at a gain of a point to 44 1/2.

Colorado Fuel and Central Leather both dropped. American Car Foundry sold at 86 1/2, a gain of 1/2 over yesterday's close.

Distillers continued its upward movement, selling at 47 1/2, against 39 1/2 yesterday's final figure.

The railway list moved within narrow limits. Money loaning at 1% per cent.

There was resumption of vigorous buying of the specialties in the late afternoon. Shortly after two o'clock Bethlehem jumped to 520.

Studebaker, Republic Iron, American Locomotive and American Car Foundry all advanced about 2 points.

Westinghouse rose 1/2 to 71 1/2 and Steel common after selling at 85 1/2 moved up to 86 1/2.

Many other specialties including American Beet Sugar, advanced sharply. The railway issues were quiet and without important change.

The market closed irregular. Trading was extremely active late in the day with continual declines and rallies.

Studebaker gained 3 points to 176, a new high record. Consolidated Gas rose 3 points to 144.

Bethlehem Steel jumped to 523 just at the close. New York Central and Reading were heavy.

Government bonds unchanged; others strong. Quotations furnished by John D. Kline, Warren Building, Fair street, Kingston, N. Y. Tel. 1423. Correspondent of C. H. Van Buren & Company, members of Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York.

How Pausanias Died.

Pausanias, the Greek general, died by self-administered poison. When he was pursued by those sent to apprehend him on a charge of treason and sacrifice he took refuge in the sanctuary of a temple. Unable to remove him by force and also unwilling to violate the sanctuary, the officers waited until the entrance and began to unroof the building. When he could be seen they noticed that he was chewing something which proved to be a quill filled with poison. By the time the work had sufficiently advanced to admit of his entrance he was in a dying condition.

The Queen Esther girls will meet tonight at 7 o'clock for rehearsal of cantata.

A regular monthly meeting of the Kingston W. C. T. U. will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the parlors of St. James' M. E. Church.

The Sunday school class of Miss Inez Smith will hold a cake sale at the St. James M. E. Church parlors on Saturday, October 23, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Edson Finger, superintendent of the tissue mills, died at his residence, Washington avenue, Saugerties, Monday morning after a short illness. In his sixty-third year. During his lifetime he had been actively identified with business in Saugerties for some time. He conducted a bakery, was superintendent for the Montgomery, Washburn Company, and latterly connected with the Tissue Company. He served as a director of the village and was a highly esteemed neighbor, friend and citizen. He is survived by a wife and two daughters. The funeral will be held from his late residence Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Mountain View cemetery.

MRS. JOCELYN WINS
BIJOU AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Seth Jocelyn won the 1915 Maxwell touring car in the contest which has been running at the Bijou for several weeks past.

Mrs. Jocelyn won over her nearest competitor by over 700,000 votes, her total reaching the magnificent figure of 1,029,390.

George Hullson, the popular clerk at the Hotel Stuyvesant, won the second prize, a $100 diamond ring, with 319,655 votes.

Mrs. A. S. Mowell, who conducts the Hudson on North Front street, captured the third prize, a $50 diamond ring with 262,065. Anna Saas was a close fourth, receiving 224,125 votes.

Lester Boice was fifth with 116,720 votes. The other contestants in the race were trailed along well behind the leaders.

The judges met at the Bijou to canvass the votes at 11:30 o'clock. They were Aaron Cohen, John E. McCarthy of Saur & McCarthy, J. M. DuBois, the Pine street grocerman. After carefully canvassing the large number of votes, they officially declared as the three prize winners, the names as given above.

Since its start the contest has excited widespread interest and the keenest rivalry has existed. Mrs. Jocelyn has made an energetic day-to-day canvass and by her consistent efforts, richly deserves the handsome prize which she has won.

Her friends will be glad indeed to learn of her success. Mr. Hullson also worked hard, and although he did not capture first prize, may well feel proud of the showing he had made and the costly prize which he has won.

The same may be said of Mrs. Mowell, who also was a tireless worker and well deserves to be numbered among the prize winners.

Immediately following the official announcement of the judges, the prizes were awarded to the successful contestants.

Manager Warner extends to the winners his heartiest congratulations and regrets that in this contest, in which all worked so hard and faithfully, it was not possible for each and everyone to receive a prize.

In Recorder's Court.

Edward McLaughlin was arrested on Tuesday night by Policeman Healey for being drunk and disorderly on the Strand. He was using extremely bad language and annoyed passersby. This morning the recorder gave him ten days in jail.

Joseph Hand was arrested by Policeman Fout for being drunk and pandering on Broadway near the West Shore crossing. He was discharged and ordered to get out of town as soon as possible.

Patrick Burns was arrested this morning by Policeman Connelly on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was sent to jail to give him a chance to get sober. When released, the influence of liquor Paddy is fond of bananas and eats them skins and all.

Miss Bevan's Singing.

Miss Margaret Bevan, the girl evangelist who is conducting services in Wurts Street Baptist Church, will sing at this evening's meeting that grand old hymn, "Home of my Soul," by request.

Miss Bevan's singing touches the hearts of all who hear her as she possesses a fine voice and her rendition of the good old gospel hymns that were sung many years ago seems to please her large audiences at each meeting.

All who have heard this talented young woman are united in their praise of her charming personality and wonderful power. A song service is held at the opening of each meeting and the hymn book used is "Songs for Service," used by Billy Sunday in all his meetings.

She Hacked the Cripple.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
San Francisco, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Mary Parnis, wife of a motorman, today confessed that she had killed Frank Weinstein, a crippled peddler, hacked his body to pieces and then hid the dismembered corpse in a wardrobe box in her room.

Troops Not Called Out.

Schenectady, Oct. 20.—No troops will be called out to help keep order here today. Neither the striking employees nor the city and county officials of Schenectady desire to make this move.

The promise having been given by the strike leaders that the turbulent scenes of today about the General Electric plant would not take place tomorrow, it was agreed that the request for state aid would not be asked at this time.

CHAPLAIN SNYDER TALKS TO SOLDIERS

Chaplain Snyder, in his address to the Old Guard and Company M on Tuesday evening, said in part:

I want to say a word on the subject, why we are here. You comrades are here because you are patriotic; you love your flag and country enough, that if need arise you are willing to sacrifice your lives in her defense. Patriotism is a vastly more than hanging out the flag on Flag Day and singing the patriotic songs occasionally very indifferently.

A patriot is not afraid to soil his hands for his country. You must have already shown these noble virtues. We need not talk to you. But it is a fact, only too true and too evident. The rising generation of young men are not patriotic to the extent of being willing to endure rigor and tedium of military training.

It is a sorrowful spectacle to see young men on the curbstone hoot and jeer and call the patriotic young men in uniform "tin soldiers." Patriotism and brains are lacking. Have you noticed that those fellows that won't be soldiers and have much to say about the tin soldiers, usually wear eleven and one-half size collars and are fond of bon-bons.

I do not want to enter into the argument that soldiers are necessary. I assume as a fundamental premise, without soldiers states and governments are impossible. I heard people talk and write about men being so advanced and civilized less than two years ago; they said that war would be impossible. Men would not slaughter one another for any cause. Yet today more than half of the civilized globe is engaged in the greatest of all wars.

It is simply contrary to sound reason, human experience and history to say that war will vanish from the earth. So long as human nature remains what it is there will be war. What has Carnegie's millions and peace-pap counted for? When men disagree the ultimate argument is the sword. Say what you will, our own great country to fulfill her great mission in the world, to develop her great resources and hold from spoliation herself should have the most efficient army and navy in the world. We are a mighty nation, with enormous wealth. If we want to continue our existence we must have soldiers willing to serve that grand old flag.

Our very greatness in resources and possibilities is a temptation for other nations. Now you men can do no better than when leaving this army tonight to resolve that you will talk up our local military organization, Company M. We have reason to be proud of it. Company M ranks very high in the regiment. Here is the opportunity for patriotic young men. Here men are made patriots. The man who has served the colors is a better citizen than the man who has not. He loves his flag and the country it stands for and obeys its laws. Aside from the higher appeal of patriotism, what training is better than the military training for young men? Young men enroll in Company M for your own good as well as for love of country.

We want a great army of reserve. You can make a soldier in six months and an officer in six months. All this takes years of patient training and study.

The organized militia of the state is the proper channel through which to receive such training; the U. S. government and the state of New York annually spend much money for this purpose. All this is in keeping with the policy and purpose of our beloved government.

We have herds of young men walking the streets of Kingston who should be in Company M. It makes men of them.

Don't let anyone imagine we will never have a war, and that if we do not join Company M we certainly will not need to be soldiers. That is just where your thinking is wrong. When war comes you young men will go if the government needs you. The government will take you and all you have if necessary. It has that right. Volunteer armies are a failure. It is criminal slaughter of the innocents.

Trained men are what we want. The training in the organized militia is of the best. So men tell our young men of their duty to country, flag and self.

There is a kindred feeling among all soldiers. We will enjoy meeting together once a month to renew acquaintances and talk over the good old times.

Let us have three hundred of the Old 112th Guard present at our next meeting.

The Beloved Art of Soothing

There are many types of femininity, but perhaps the rarest and most appreciated is the girl who soothes. There are so many vivacious girls, types which excite one to mirth or to lively interest, but there is only one girl in a hundred who soothes. She is like the oasis in the desert, restful, refreshing, welcome to one and all. The woman with the keen wit, she of the bubbling mirth, the girl with the languorous manner, all are of interest at times and under certain conditions, but the girl who soothes never fails to attract wherever she may be.

It is she who smooths down your ruffled feelings when circumstances seem to have conspired against your peace of mind. If your dressmaker has failed to deliver your new frock at the promised time or if your maid has just broken your favorite bit of china, you take your troubles to the girl who soothes and come away feeling much better for her cheering words.

To learn this most difficult branch of social diplomacy, namely, the gentle art of soothing, you must have, first of all, a goodly share of intuition. There are times when your ruffled friend may want you to ignore her very apparent perturbation. At other times she may be just waiting for you to speak a word of sympathy or perhaps to touch upon the upsetting subject in order to burst out with her whole tale of woe. Your intuition will have to tell you.

One of the first things for you to learn in the gentle art of soothing is never to disturb your friend's poses. There is nothing quite so ruffling as to have one's pose detected. If a friend is a chronic invalid (with nothing really the matter) sympathize with her imagined aches and pains just as if they were real.

If a friend has her mind all made up to be a martyr let her be one and don't suggest possible ways out of her martyrdom. She will rant on for hours on the subject of all she has to undergo, and it would be fatally tactless to disturb her in this pose. If she imagines her husband untrue to her just because he has had to consult a woman client on a matter of business, console with her by all means, whether you think her foolish or not.

You must never suggest, by any chance, that your confidant was in the wrong in a quarrel. If she tells you at length how Bobbly and she no longer speak to each other because he is so ridiculously jealous, smooth her down in your most careful way. Suggest that Bobbly would not be so jealous if he did not care for her; never intimate in the faintest way that she would give any one a single cause for jealousy.

If you want to be one of those rare creatures, a girl who soothes, never tell a third woman shopper that she could have obtained much better bargains at another store. If a friend wears an overelaborate gown, make no comment on it, but tell her that you have never seen her hair look so well. It is strange how far an adroit compliment will go at times toward smoothing a ruffled mind.

There are women, however, who cannot be helped by such methods at all. You must study your friends and their characters in order to learn the art of soothing thoroughly. There is no single way, but rather myriad of ways of calming down a ruffled mind. In fact, each woman seems to need a different treatment.

It is well worth studying the art, however, for the girl who soothes is beloved by all who know her.

ATTRACTIVE FOR GUESTS.

Very few young housekeepers have been spared the acute misery of trying to equip the guest room for the unexpected guest at the last minute.

The best sheets were probably at the laundry, the supply of Turkish towels had suddenly reduced itself to rock bottom, and most tragic of all there was not a single presentable nightgown to offer the guest, who had left her own at home.

Only a very few of these humiliating experiences are needed to make the hostess appreciate the advantage of a guest chest.

The chest may be a shirt waist box, a carved oak or cedar chest or whatever fits into the general scheme of the guest room.

In it should be stowed a nightgown, kimono or bathrobe, a dressing jacket, an extra pair of blankets, an extra coverlet, a hot water bag, several large and small sized towels, washcloths, individual cakes of soap, absorbent cotton, corn plaster and medical helps.

It is a gracious touch to add other things for the comfort of the guest, articles she might hesitate to ask for, such as a work basket equipped with black and white thread, a darning ball, needles and pins, scissors, card of hooks and eyes, a roll of linen tape, buttons and numerous other things that suggest themselves.

A list should be kept of all articles in the chest, and as soon as any part of the supply is exhausted it should be replaced immediately.

What is the Gain to Be?
Woman suffrage means a doubled outlay of time and energy and a great increased outlay of money devoted to elections and to government. It means diverting the attention of woman from her natural duties. This is a direct loss to the state. Suffragists must prove that woman will bring to the state, through the ballot box, some gain that will more than counterbalance this loss.

PALMER DESCRIBES
FIELD OF BATTLE

(By Frederick Palmer.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 20.—"All the ground to the ridge of the horizon was taken on the first day," said an officer standing in a first line French trench in the Champagne region from which a wave of men fifteen miles long on the morning of Sept. 25, dashed forward, winning from one to five miles before the tidal rush of soldiers was stopped.

I was the first correspondent to view the great battlefield. I looked across a rolling land of thin soil with groves of dwarf pine which rise out of almost snow-white excavations, chalk burrows, trenches, communication ditches, traverses and redoubts where German military science and industry had sought impregnability in vain.

The population in the camp of Chalons, near which the French fought to regain their old review ground, is very meagre. For a year this has been the theater of a relentless sapping warfare.

Only the village of Perthes was in sight from where I stood and its cluster of houses had become the typical pile of ruins which marks shell fire.

The correspondent, walking over the course of the French advance, witnessed the results of the most powerful defense attacks by the most powerful assault of the war.

The famous hill, the Butte of Ture, the occupation of which clinched French success, resembles any small wooded eminence.

To the north shells could be seen bursting over the Somme-Py railway. That important German line of transportation was cut, as the French gunfire rendered it useless.

An enormous amount of labor was accomplished by the French in preparation for their advance. French engineers built a transport road ten miles long. Sappers dug a winding communication ditch, six foot deep, six feet broad and five miles long. This trench was cut through chalk, the consistency of soft stone.

The object of this long, deep ditch was to enable the French soldiers to advance without being subjected directly to the shell fire of the Germans. Although the fighting had been over for some time there were still many unexploded German shells and hand grenades lying upon the ground. The French soldiers were busily at work gathering in and sorting the captured accoutrements in order to compile the booty.

Occasionally we came across a shell hole or a dug-out where German dead were buried. In one grave were thirty-four corpses; in another were sixteen. In some instances the inscription upon the cross over the grave related that both French and Germans were interred there.

Nearby where battles had been fought are other graves marked with crosses and in these German and French soldiers who were enemies on earth, sleep as brothers in death, side by side. Some of the crosses over the French graves were surmounted by flowers which had been sent by relatives.

Where the graves were so new that there had not been time to erect a cross we sometimes saw a bottle stuck neck first into the earth. Inside the bottle were pieces of paper bearing the name of the dead man. Nearly every inscription that was on the graves of German and French alike bore the words "Killed on the field of honor."

A priest had gathered branches of pine trees and arranged them on a hillside to mark the dead of the regiment of which he was the chaplain.

Considering the immensity of the operations with at least a million men on each side, and the fighting taking place over a narrow front, the small number of French casualties was amazing. Officers who had participated said that the German losses were much more heavy than the first official estimate and must have been at least 150,000. Twenty-five thousand Germans were captured, which was a very small proportion to the number killed by high explosives and trench to trench fighting.

The barbed wire in front of the first line trenches of the Germans was cut to bits in the preliminary bombardment so that it offered absolutely no resistance to the advance when the French soldiers swept forward.

Soldiers agreed that the rush of the first line was a "walk-over," as there was no rifle nor machine gun fire, due to the long and violent French bombardment. The first serious resistance from the Germans developed on the second line. It was impossible for the French artillery to smash all the Germans' second line trenches on a fifteen mile sector and to blast away all the barbed wire entanglements. Consequently the advance had to pause at some places or slowly cut a way forward.

By the state of the ugly masses of barbed wire, rusted by the rains of the past year, the correspondent was able to tell where the tide of French soldiery had advanced, halted and flowed through the openings before the charge was continued on the other side.

The labor and detail of the German earthworks are prodigious. They look as if hundreds of thousands of beavers had never ceased toiling, so well were they prepared. Officers declared that the Germans knew they were to be attacked but they believed their positions impregnable. The Germans were overwhelmed by the greater number of French guns concentrated against them and the great masses of men.

The most formidable German position seemed the redoubt of Troubricot, which had munitielous on every side, deep, dungeon-like cellars and sand bag galleries which had been pounded into heaps of dust by the high explosives. French infantrymen marveled to find a few Germans still alive, but their senses were numbed by the artillery fire. Occasionally a fragment of dried human flesh and a bit of green German uniform were still visible in the wreckage.

"If we can take that with our guns we ought to be able to take anything the Germans can build," said the French soldiers when they saw the ruins of the redoubt of Troubricot.

In the midst of the remains of the Germans' colossal labor and probably 500,000 sand bags, was a mine crater, 100 feet deep and 200 feet wide, which had been exploded after the French guns had completed their work and before the French infantry charged. Many other such mine craters were seen at formidable points.

A significant bit of German strategy was revealed by the fight. A long ditch had been dug through the woods in front of the German lines and the French, in advancing, naturally took shelter in it. However, the Germans had a masked machine gun at one end of the ditch, hidden by branches and this was turned upon the French.

"However, we took that gun," said the French officer who had led the advance in that district.

The roads and light single track railways which the Germans had built to supply their trenches, all contained good material, which are now being used by the French, the old German trenches being turned into new works for French occupation.

Deep German dug-outs under the parapets now give French reserves protection from German shell fire.

The underground habitations of German officers, equipped with lace curtains, table and chairs are now the property of French officers. In a dug-out labelled "schreibstube," where German soldiers wrote home to Posen or Hanover, French soldiers now write to Marseilles or Bordeaux or other French cities.

Tanned sturdy soldiers appeared from the burrows of chalk as we approached, asking for the latest newspapers which we had thoughtfully taken along with us. All the soldiers were confident that they could repeat their victorious performance.

An officer pointed out to me a spot near a clump of trees where General Marchand was wounded while directing a charge. At the time the French officer was standing upon the lip of a trench which had just been captured from the Germans and was ordering the men against the second line. We heard many stories of heroism, leadership and initiative on the part of both officers and men.

For instance, there was the general of a brigade who seized a rifle and led a charge in person after the colonel had been killed, retrieving a very critical position. He has since been promoted to be the commander of a division.

Both sides are now organizing their new positions, the Germans having settled down in front of the new lines of the French. There are occasional machine gun duels and aeroplane fighting and occasionally a shell bursts over the landscape.

The Law of Habeas Corpus.

The enactment of the law of habeas corpus marks an important epoch in the progress of civil liberty in England and is regarded as one of the great achievements of Charles II's reign. Charles himself did not want the law, but just at the time he was very anxious to curry favor with the people and was afraid to oppose so popular a measure. The friends and foes of the act were pretty evenly divided in parliament, but in the final vote it was carried. The manner of its passage, however, was both comical and illegal. While the voting was going on a very fat lord arose and asked that his vote be recorded in the affirmative. In a spirit of fun the clerk announced ten votes for him to accord with his great size. They were so recorded, and for some unexplained reason the "error" was never corrected. The strangest part of it is the majority for the measure was less than ten; hence it would have failed of passage without the fat lord's extra votes—Argonaut.

When Texas Branded Thieves.

Adam was the first man, the very first, to be indicted by a grand jury in Houston. His name, to be more specific, was James Adam. The charge was that he stole, the indictment larceny. He was convicted. This was the sentence: To return to the rightful owner the sum of $225, to be given thirty-nine lashes on the bare back in a public place and to be branded with the letter T on the back of the right hand. This all happened in Houston in the spring of 1837. The first book of the records of the legal doings of Harris county is a yellowed and old thing. The first matter written in it is a statement signed by Sam Houston giving authority for the court. It announces that he has appointed Benjamin Franklin Judge of the court. The place is given as "the town of Houston, county of Harrisburg, republic of Texas."—Houston Chronicle.

Pinned Him Down.

Sidney Smith was once dining in company with a French gentleman, who had been before dinner indulging in a number of free-thinking speculations, and had ended by avowing himself a materialist. "Very good soup this," said Mr. Smith. "Out, monsieur, c'est excellent," was the reply. "Pray, sir, do you believe in a cook?" inquired Mr. Smith.

of wealth he was suddenly thrown on the world. As the successful competitor for a prize offered by a Baltimore newspaper, he makes his first appearance as an author. His literary record is one of long suffering, want and discouragement, yet few Americans have left so enduring a name to posterity. The many trials and disappointments that embittered his life, gave a morbid tone to all his writings, yet all bear the stamp of originality, have a keen sense of beauty and a forcible manner of expression. Most of his days were so full of work and poverty, so crossed and crossed again by unhappiness and hardship that most of his works are very fragmentary. While his writings were read wherever the English language was spoken, they brought to the poor, half-starved poet, who had to live by his genius, little remuneration. The prolonged illness and death of his wife, whom "he loved as no man ever loved before," was the final blow to his shattered fortunes and weakened constitution. He died from the effects of a supposed drugging and exposure October 9, 1849. Too late to benefit him the estimate of his genius steadily increased and a monument was erected over his tomb in the city of Baltimore. In her paper, Mrs. Short paid a glowing tribute to the grandeur of Yellowstone Park, describing its wonderful geysers, snow-capped peaks, marvelous canyon, immense plains, splendid forests and mysterious rivers. The paper was thoroughly enjoyed, and caused a fuller realization of the wealth and vastness of America's wonderland. The club adjourned to meet October 25 with Miss Cloonan, 98 Elmendorf street. The program that day will be roll call, quotations from Marlowe Faun. Principal paper—Nathaniel Hawthorne, Mrs. H. C. Reynolds. Short paper—in the Adirondacks, Mrs. J. D. Pfommer.

An Ancient English Inn.

Among the Inns that put forward a claim to antiquity place must be found for "Ye Old King James and Ye Tinker," which still "carries on" its business at White Webb's Lane, near Walham Cross. It claims to have been established well over a thousand years ago and came by its present unique title through King James I. visiting it during a royal hunt in Endell Chase and meeting with a linker imbibing his modest cup of malt who desired to see a king. His majesty promised his wish should be granted and took him on his horse to where his nobles were assembled, throwing off his incognito at the proper dramatic moment, to the great confusion of the linker, whose embarrassment was salved by a knighthood and commemorated in a ballad.—London Chronicle.

Organ Recital.

Norman Coke Jephcott, organist of the Church of the Messiah, Rhinebeck, and musical director of the Choristers' School of the same place, will on Thursday afternoon of this week, at four o'clock, give an organ recital in the church. One of the lads from the Choristers' School will sing a solo, and Kingston people interested in organ music and the charm of boy voices, are invited to attend the recital. The program will be as follows:

Toccata con Figa (D Minor). Bach
Cantata in A Flat. Wolfenstein
Allegro ma non troppo.

Andante.
Allegro con fuoco.
Vocal Solo, "With All Your Hearts." Monkschoon
Master Ralph Waugh (Pupil of the Choristers' School).
Meditation. d'Every
Grand Chorus. Salome

Lowell Club.

The Lowell Club held its first 1915-16 meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Baker. The subject of study will be "Ireland." The afternoon's program opened with a roll call, "Vacation Experiences." This was followed by a Victrola selection, given by Mrs. Fessenden, entitled, "The Story of Erin la Song." Mrs. Basten had the paper for the day, her topic being, "Erin, Topography, Early Inhabitants." Mrs. Basten gave a most interesting and informative description of the location named and told in entertaining manner of the people of old Ireland as we know them through tradition and earliest history. Mrs. Edwards then gave readings from the "Treasury of Irish Song," and "The Little Old Plaid Shawl." This was followed by another reading, not on the program, but one which was highly appreciated. Mrs. Teller read the short poem, "Sonnet," written by Miss Baragwanath, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Baragwanath. The meeting closed with another Victrola selection, "Mother Machree." Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Bruza.

Sothanishade Club.

The Sothanishade Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Grover Lasher on Lucas avenue. In response to roll call the members gave readings from the poetical works of Edgar Allan Poe. The principal paper of the day was also on Poe, and was read by Miss Sarah Miller, who gave a remarkably interesting history of the life and writings of this strange and melancholy genius. On one side Poe was of Revolutionary ancestry, who had emigrated from Ireland to this country; on the other he was the descendant of an English actress. Losing both parents at a very early age he was adopted by the wealthy Mr. Allen, from which he takes his middle name. Having no children of their own, his foster parents petted and indulged the bright, headstrong boy, giving the happiest and perhaps only comfortable years of his life. He was very fond of his adopted mother and held her memory dear until the day of his death. In 1816 he was taken to England and spent several years in school there. On his return to this country he continued his studies at the University of Virginia, but getting in trouble, he left the institution and quarreled with his liberal patron. Later entering West Point he became disgusted with military discipline and deliberately effected his own expulsion, which caused the final breach with Mr. Allen. The death of Mrs. Allen and the birth of an heir by a subsequent marriage forever blasted all hopes of an inheritance. Sensitive, proud, wayward and pampered to all the requirements

HERE COMES SADOFSKY.

Running For Town Clerk and Kingstons is For Him.
Abram N. Sadofsky is a candidate for town clerk of the town of Mt. Pleasant, Westchester county. This may not be news to some of the baseball fans of Kingston, but when it is known that Sadofsky is none other than Bradley, the famous second baseman of Kingston's last team when it was under the management of John J. Cuneo, it may come as a surprise. If Bradley can run as fast for political office as good as he could for the bases and field his position there will be no one but him in sight when the avalanche of ballots has been cast on Election Day. Kingston baseball cranks hope to see him elected. The fact that he is on the regular Republican ticket seems to indicate that Brad will be successful.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Oct. 20.—What do series statistics amount to anyway in doping out a world series conflict? Harry Hooper made only two home runs during the entire 1915 playing season—an average of about one home run in every 75 games. And there in that fifth game of the Philadelphia-Red Sox battling, Hooper banged out two circuit swats.

"Cactus" Cravath was figured as one of the greatest offensive factors in the Phillies play. Hadn't Cravath whanged out 24 homers; hadn't he averaged one hit in every four times at bat throughout the season? Sure, he had.

Well, the "slugging" Cravath made exactly two hits in the entire five games, finishing with an average of .125.

Alexander was looked upon as the bulwark of the Phillies defense. Every bit of "dope" was to the effect that he would stem the Red Sox onslaught. But Alex failed. Those Red Sox clubbed him with much gusto in the first game, and beat him in the third. Alexander got his chance to become a hero—and Alex failed.

Many explanations have been offered for the downfall of the Phillies, but what better one is there than is shown in these figures.

Games.	A.B.	H.	Ave.
Cravath	5	16	.125
Whitted	5	15	.067
Niehoff	5	15	.067

The batting record of that trio of regulars was the biggest surprise of the series. Those three men were counted upon as among the timeliest hitters on the Phillies roster as the men who would deliver in a pinch. Yet grand batting average of that trio was .086.

Dope, after all, is nothing but dope. And it's very unsafe stuff for use as a foundation for world series predictions.

One of the unhappiest men in all these United States is William F. Baker, owner of the Phillies. He's unhappy, of course, because the Phillies lost, but his cup of sorrow is filled to overflowing every time he thinks of those bleacher seats that he built in his park—the seats that enabled the Red Sox to win that fifth game, thus preventing a sixth battle in Boston, that would have meant at least $40,000 for Baker and an equal amount for Joe Lannin, owner of the Red Sox.

When the Phillies cinched the pennant Baker decided to build 400 extra seats in the right-center section of the outfield. He wanted to increase the income from those games—and he did, at a cost of $80,000 to Lannin and himself.

"Duffy Lewis's drive in the eighth inning of the fifth game bounded into the bleachers for a home run, scoring Gainer ahead of him, and tying the score. If those bleachers hadn't been there, the outfielders could have grabbed it on the rebound from the fence and held Lewis to a triple—probably a double.

In the ninth, Harry Hooper's home run, which landed in a home run, also bounded into the bleachers. If they hadn't been there Hooper wouldn't have gotten farther than second or third, the Phillies might have won the game, and the series would have gone one game—possibly two games—further.

And 90 per cent of the intake of all those games above four went to the clubs.

Baker added $400 a day for three days to the income from those extra seats and lost for himself and the owners of the rival clubs at least $10,000 and possibly $80,000 each.

OLD GUARD PARADES AND IS ENTERTAINED

Company M and the Old Guard of Kingston made a fine appearance on Broadway on Tuesday evening, when they paraded in the effort to aid in the excitement in the local guard to its full strength. One feature of the parade which attracted more than passing comment was that some of the old boys had not forgotten their early training and marched to the music of the band as alert as some of the young rookies of the present guard. Broadway was illuminated with red lights and burning bonfires and barrels as the home defenders passed along the line of march.

A start was made from the armory about 5 o'clock. The present company was headed by the Colonial City Band and the martial music it played made some of the old fellows bristle up as they were going again to state duty and its many pleasures as well as hardships. Some of the gray-haired veterans were as lively as crickets and evidently felt that way from the expressions on their faces. Captain Meagher certainly seemed proud of his company of young men as they stepped briskly to the music of the band.

The line of march was up Broadway to Albany avenue and counter-march to West Chestnut street. Arriving at the armory there were nearly one hundred and fifty guardsmen to sit down and listen to a good vaudeville entertainment. Among those who took part were John McCarthy in solos, Thomas Dolan, three people from the Blou, Thomas and Newman and James Dickson in old Scotch songs.

During the evening addresses were made by Major Tanner, Captain C. M. Woodcock, Captain George Fowler, John E. Kraft and Chaplain Howard E. Snyder. Another meeting will be held on November 11. It is hoped to enroll many more in the Old Guard Association.

Many expressions were heard concerning the good work done by the police under the direction of Chief Wood, a former lieutenant of Company M.

HOWARD J. SHULTIS.

The Republican candidate for alderman in the Ninth Ward is Howard J. Shultis of No. 63 Brewster street, who has resided in the ward for 17 years. For ten years Mr. Shultis was a foreman in the American Cigar Factory and for the past four years has held a similar position with Van Slyke & Horton. In 1898 he enlisted in the 114th Separate Company of the National Guard and was discharged in 1903 with the rank of corporal. He re-enlisted in Company M and served another five years, being discharged in 1908. Mr. Shultis is a member of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. and A. M.

FLATBUSH.

Flatbush, Oct. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burkhans, Mrs. Juanita Burkhans, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Burkhans and Mrs. Kate Burkhans enjoyed a motor trip to the Ashokan dam on Sunday.

JOHN E. HULL.

John E. Hull, Republican candidate for alderman in the Twelfth Ward, is in every way a self-made man. He was in the employ of H. W. Palen's Sons for about 8 years and is now senior member of the firm of Hull & Davis, wood dealers of 10 Hurley avenue. The candidate is a member of Excelsior hose company and served actively for the past thirty years. For many years he was president of the company. Socially, Mr. Hull is of a pleasing personality and extremely popular in his ward, particularly with the firemen. They will give him a large complimentary vote for his great activity in the department. In the council his services should prove valuable in many ways.

EMERALD TO LIVE.

Jersey City Policeman Recovering in Rhinebeck from Rare Disease.

Policeman George Barber of Jersey City was found to be suffering from the rare disease of gas bacilli while a patient in the Thompson Hospital at Rhinebeck, where he had gone to convalesce after a severe attack of pneumonia. Dr. George Chandler of this city was called and successfully treated the case and Mr. Barber is now on the road to recovery. The disease is the same that is afflicting the soldiers in the trenches in the western theater of the war in Europe. Just how Mr. Barber contracted the disease is unknown even to himself, but Dr. Chandler's theory is that the patient inhaled the germ while walking near a dry manure pile, where the germ lurks. The prevalence of this disease among the soldiers in Europe, according to Dr. Chandler, is due to the fact that the trenches are dug in fields and pasture lands where manure from cattle has accumulated. The germ of the disease thrives under those conditions and is spread. This disease is somewhat similar to lockjaw and the germ generally works into the system through a cut or bruise on the body. In Mr. Barber's case it was necessary to operate and inoculate him with a fluid similar to that used for embalming purposes by undertakers in order to save his life.

Pearson is Coming.

FRANK W. Pearson, the New York state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the guest of the local association on Monday and that evening will deliver an address before the members of the National League membership teams of the association who will meet at the building for supper that evening at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Pearson is an eloquent speaker and has a message well worth hearing. Interest in the big membership campaign is gradually increasing and it is expected that between now and November 2, when the campaign closes, that the committees in charge of the work will use every effort to secure members. The Y. M. C. A. needs the membership of the men and boys of the city and they need the advantages offered by the association.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, Oct. 20.—Preaching service will be held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Voight.

Mrs. Jacob H. Baker and little daughter, Miss Ethel, of Mettaca-honts, are enjoying a few days' visit with friends and relatives in this place.

Miss Gladys Carter returned to Kingston on Sunday after spending three weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Snyder.

A number of the young people from this place attended the pie supper at Sansonville hall Saturday evening.

Ross Brown of Kerhonkson visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Romain Brown, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Perna Hornbeck and daughter spent Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Tina Gray.

The social that was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Snyder last Friday evening was well attended despite the inclement weather. Proceeds, clear of expenses, was $9.00. We wish to thank all those who helped in any way in making the social a success.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baker of Mettaca-honts went through this place last Saturday en route for an automobile trip around the Ashokan dam.

Mrs. Margaret Carter, who has been spending the summer at Stamford, Delaware county, has accepted a position at the Mitchell House at Kingston for the winter. Mrs. Carter was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carter, for a few days the past week before going to Kingston.

The ladies of the M. E. Church are planning and arranging for their church fair to be held in November, in Thanksgiving week.

Mrs. D. J. Brown has been entertaining her two aunts from Kingston the past week.

Sunday school was well attended on Sunday last.

Mrs. Annie Hornbeck, who has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation with relatives at Napanoch and Ellettsville, is expected to return home on Saturday.

Warren Miller is employed as teamster for Mrs. Agnes Brown. Mr. Miller will move in the log cabin he vacated last spring.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Poultry Short Course at Cornell.
Announcement is made of the winter course in poultry husbandry at the New York state college of agriculture, and the college authorities say that there is a promising field of work open to men and women who complete the course. Under the subjects offered, students have opportunities to develop plans for their own poultry business; they may prepare themselves for teaching or experimenting in poultry husbandry; or they may study the management of poultry farms. It is stated that each student is placed upon his own resources, and the opportunities for success depend largely on the ability of the individual.

The Cornell poultry course aims to train students in the practical handling of poultry and poultry products, and an announcement from the college states that the work includes feeding, house construction, incubating and brooding, breeding, culling, killing and picking poultry, candling, grading and packing eggs, use of machinery, construction of appliances, poultry accounting, and poultry farm management. The students have the use of the libraries of Cornell University, including those of the college of agriculture, and of the poultry department, which contains most of the best books and nearly all of the important poultry periodicals.

Each student is placed in charge of a flock of hens, an incubator and a brooder, and thus has an opportunity to actually do all the work involved in poultry raising under the close supervision of the instructor. The course is designed to occupy all the time of the student during his twelve weeks of attendance. Men and women from all walks of life have taken the course. Many of these students have had several years of commercial farming, or teaching experience, and part of the value of the classes is said to come from the class room discussions, ample opportunity being given for the exchange of ideas and the consideration of practical problems and experiences. Only those who have had the equivalent of at least six months actual farm experience are eligible for the course, so everyone in attendance is likely to have a knowledge of the fundamentals of farming.

Only a limited number of men and women can be admitted each year, but it is announced that there is still opportunity to apply for admittance to the course before the registration on November 3th, although it is said to be advisable to write to the college at once in order to be assured of a place. Tuition is free to residents of New York state. Persons who desire to learn more about the poultry course may secure a descriptive announcement by writing to the college of agriculture at Ithaca, New York.
